

Selection of successful students of Professor Niklas Sivelöv

Marie-Luise Bodendorff was born in Augsburg (Germany) in 1983.

She had her first piano lessons at the age of five and due to her exceptional talent she was admitted to the Hochschule für Musik in Karlsruhe at the age of 10. She later became a full-time student of Prof. Olga Rissin-Morenova.

Aged six, Marie-Luise Bodendorff started giving concerts. Her first public appearance was with The South-West Chamber Orchester Pforzheim in 1989.

Other events include performing with Kurpfälzisches Kammerorchester Mannheim, New Philharmonic Westphalia, Folkwang Kammerorchester Essen, The Bacau Philharmonic and The Kharkov Philharmonic. She has played numerous solo and chamber music recitals throughout Germany and abroad, and also made recordings for ARD and Bayrischen Rundfunk. She made a notable appearance on “We can do everything except speak High German”, a TV-spot that was broadcast to all of Germany.

From 2002 until 2007, Marie-Luise Bodendorff studied with Russian piano authority Vladimir Krainev at the Hannover University of Music, Drama and Media.

The ERASMUS exchange programme enabled her to study at Paris Conservatoire, where she took lessons with the famous French pianist Brigitte Engerer in 2008.

From 2007 to 2013, Marie-Luise Bodendorff attended Postgraduate Studies with Prof. Christopher Oakden in Hannover and finished these successfully.

The soloist class at Royal Danish Academy of Music (RDAM) with Prof. Niklas Sivelöv, proved to be an important milestone on her artistic journey.

In June 2014, Marie-Luise Bodendorff received her soloist diploma and gave her debut recital in Tivoli Concert Hall. She had already given a virtuoso solo recital in 2013 and performed Rachmaninoff’s Third Piano Concerto at the same venue one year earlier with the RDAM Orchestra.

In 2013, Marie-Luise Bodendorff was invited to play for the Danish Royal Family at Chateau de Caix. Here she started a collaboration with the “Nordic String Quartet” that later became known all over Denmark as the “Nordic Piano Quintet”. Concerts at Copenhagen Summer Festival, Bornholm Chamber Music Festival, Ofelia Live and other events followed.

The piano quintet has received coaching by Prof. Tim Frederiksen, Lars Anders Tomter and Alexander Zapolski.

Marie-Luise Bodendorff currently resides in Copenhagen, Denmark.

Her portfolio of international piano competition prizes and other awards include:

Filip Strauch belongs among the most talented Slovakian pianists of his generation. After the graduation from the University in Slovakia in 2012 he was admitted for the advanced postgraduate programme-soloist class at The Royal Academy of Music in Copenhagen, Denmark with Prof. Niklas Sivelov.

Simultaneously with his Danish studies, Filip won a scholarship for a special training course at The Rimsky-Korsakov Conservatory in Saint Petersburg, Russia where he has been studying with well-known Russian pianists and teachers Vladimir Shakin and Sergey Maltsev.

Filip began playing the piano at a very early age, under the guidance of his pianist father. A ten year old Filip recorded Mozart's well-known fantasy C minor for the Slovak Radio. During his studies at the Conservatory in Žilina, Filip became a laureate of the Slovak Conservatories Competition and simultaneously won a contest to play alongside the National Chamber Orchestra.

In 2004 he received the medal for representing the school and in the same year was admitted to the Conservatory in Bratislava to be tutored by renowned teacher Peter Pazicky. It was under his guidance that Filip later graduated with great success in the Slovak Philharmonic. In 2005 he started his studies at the Academy of Performing Arts in Bratislava with Ivan Gajan, and later Marian Lapšanský. Filip worked with several renowned teachers - Ferenc Rados, Josef Kluson, András Keller, Avedis Kouyoumdjian, Dmitri Bashkurov, Christian Zacharias, Robert Levin, Catherine Brown, Juhani Lagerspetz, Steven Mayer, Liisa Pohjola, Jens Elvekjær, Boris Berman.

As a prize winner of the Yamaha competition in Bratislava in 2009, Filip got an opportunity to perform with the Slovak Radio Orchestra, which was recorded live and broadcast on Radio Devín. During university Filip represented the school throughout Europe. Filip won in June 2014 1st prize in Piano Competition of Royal Danish Academy of Music and simultaneously won a prize of best instrumentalist of academy. In addition to solo play, he has been regularly working on many projects including chamber and contemporary music. He has a large number of awards for best chamber player and has frequently cooperated with Slovak

Television and the Slovak Radio.

Since 2005 he has been actively involved in educational activities, and is regularly invited to festivals and master-classes. From 2009 to 2011 he taught at the Bratislava Conservatory - chamber music - piano duos.

This year has established two chamber groups with renowned musicians from four countries (Denmark, Czech Republic, Poland and Slovakia). Filip is currently working on the release of his debut solo album.
